Educating Rats
Making Blue Diamonds
Cruel Insect Wives
A $99,000,000 Slash
By Arthur Brisbane

PROFESSOR McDONOUGH, of Harvard, proves that the intelligence of white rats can be increased in eight generations. Six times every day the rats were dropped in water and had to climb out on one of two wire leading stages, one charged with electricity that gave a severe shock, other not so charged.

You may call that slow. But in eight thousand generations the human race has not learned to keep away from war, which is considerably more unpleasant than the electrically charged leading stage of the rat.

SCIENTISTS TELL you that with the aid of radium you can transform a yellow diamond worth $100 into a blue-white diamond worth $100. If the diamond is bigger, your increased value will be proportionately greater.

Diamonds thus treated have remained blue for four years. Whether they would remain blue forever, science doesn't know. It "blue white" diamonds were commoner than yellow diamonds, they would be cheaper than the yellow. And if diamonds were as plentiful as glass, women would not want them. Moralize on that.

PROFESSOR JULIAN HUXLEY, who inherits his love of science, says courtship and deep affection exist even among lower animals. The male crab holds his big, brightly colored claw in the air to attract the lady crab's favorable attention. The male spider will catch a fly and offer it to the female spider, as you have seen a rooster find a worm and let a hen eat it. Sometimes, at the last moment, he eats it himself.

The poor male spider is most to be pitied of all husbands, for his wife usually devours him at the end of their honeymoon.

CHAMP IN NEAR FIGHT OVER WILLS

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The State Athletic Commission, in special session today, recommended that Jack Dempsey be granted a license to meet Gene Tunney in a contest for the world's heavyweight championship at the Yankee Stadium Sept. 16.

The commission voted two to one in favor of the recommendation. James A. Farley, the chair casting the opposing vote. Farley has had out for a match between Dempsey and Harry Wills.

Feddy Mullins, grey-haired manager of Wills, and Dempsey nearly came to blows in a heated argument outside the commission office after the decision had been reached. You may be the champion, but you are also the biggest liar in the world," Mullins shouted at the champion.

Dempsey's face was aflame with rage. "It's a good thing you are an old man," Dempsey cried. "I may be old, but I can lick you."

FIVE MINERS IN TRAP SAVED

alem, Ky., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—All five miners who were trapped by a cave-in at the Hudson mine last Thursday were brought to the surface alive today.

Randolph Cobb was the first man to reach the top of the shaft. He called the crowd which awaited anxiously: "Hello, there, boys, I'm not sick."

Boy James, for whom little hope had been held as he had been separated from the other miners when the cave-in occurred, was the next to appear.

ENVOY MOORE IN HOSPITAL

Paris, Aug. 12 (U.S.A.).—Alexander P. Moore, former Ambassador to Spain, who was removed from the Majestic boat-train today and taken to the American Hospital, is not seriously ill and after a few days of rest and quiet in the hospital will probably be restored to normal health, it was said tonight.

Moore had taken some treatments at the Roosevelt Hospital in New York prior to his sailing, but his illness became worse during the voyage and he was deemed wise to remove him to a hospital here for rest and treatment.

STRIKE BANKRUPTS

UNIONS IN ENGLAND
Middleborough, Eng., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—J. Hawelock Wilson, president of the Seamen's Union, told a meeting of the men here today that nearly every trade union in Great Britain is bankrupt as a result of the recent general strike.

Hundreds of thousands of men, he added, had declared they would pay no more money to their unions.

Attorney Francis A. Juggins, representing the three youths, announced he would ask the Governor for a respite, postponing the execution until the full bench of the Supreme Court passes on exceptions.

The Governor has the power to reject this request, but he cannot grant it without first gaining the consent of his Executive Council.

Judge Fosdick ruled that there was not sufficient evidence in the motion for a new trial to warrant his granting one.

Judge Fosdick gave his decision after Attorney Juggins had made an impassioned plea in behalf of John J. Devereaux, Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin, the condemned men.

Juggins declared that evidence relating to Devereaux's alleged insanity should be presented to a jury. He claimed that Devereaux was insane when he killed James Farnese, aged watchman of the Waltham carbarn.

"The insanity defense was a substantial one, but it was not presented at the trial, as it should have been," asserted Juggins.

In reply, District Attorney Arthur K. Reading declared that the three defendants were examined by government alienists before being brought to trial and were found sane. He said Devereaux was secretly examined during the trial by an alienist hired by the defense and that an insanity defense was not made because the alienist's report would not support it.

Reading said Devereaux was abnormal as to character but not as to intellect.

The new trial hearing was held amid an atmosphere surcharged with excitement. Crowds stormed the gates leading into the courtroom but they were not allowed to enter. This was a precaution seldom taken in the country courthouse in East Cambridge.

The interested parties with the proper credentials were admitted to the courtroom and the courtroom.

After denying the motion for a new trial, Judge Fosdick made several rulings in favor of Attorney Juggins and the condemned youths and Juggins later expressed an opinion that these gave him an excellent basis for argument in asking the Governor for a postponement of the execution.

SMUGGLING CHARGED TO ROCKEFELLER'S KIN

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Goods belonging to J. Pierpont Rockefeller, son of William G. Rockefeller and grand nephew of John D. Rockefeller, were held by the collector of the port today on the ground that the young man had attempted to smuggle them into the country when he arrived on the liner France.

Young Rockefeller, who was in Yale University last year, was arrested on the pier by customs officials who said that he was in the act of bringing into the country undeclared cash, a gold watch, a diamond ring and two automobile ornaments.

He was taken before Philip Klutznick, collector of the port, who ordered the goods seized. After determination of the foreign value and duty of the goods the collector placed a personal penalty of 100 per cent, in addition to the domestic value. Young Rockefeller will be forced to pay $470 to reclaim the goods.

Customs Guard Cassidy said he noticed young Rockefeller because the young man was wearing a gray topcoat despite the sweltering heat. On closer inspection he found that he possessed the pockets of the coat bulging as though tightly packed.

The grandson of the late William Rockefeller, brother of the Standard Oil magnate, sailed on June 24 last with two other Yale students in third class accommodations. They toured Europe together, but Rockefeller returned in a first class cabin on the France.

U. S. EMPLOYMENT FOR JULY ON STRONG BASIS

Washington, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The United States is on a fairly satisfactory employment basis, according to an industrial survey made during July by the employment division of the Department of Labor.

A slight decrease in operations and employment occurred in several of the major industries during the month, mainly as a result of the usual midsummer slackening, the report said.

The boat and shoe industry, particularly in the New England States, continued operations on parttime schedules. There are indications, however, operating time and employment will increase during the next thirty days.

The textile industry showed little improvement, many of the mills still running part time, with curtailed forces. The iron and steel industry experienced the usual seasonal lull.

The volume of building under way during July showed a slight decline as compared with June. Road construction reached a high peak and large numbers of unskilled and untrained workers were employed. The farm labor supply and demand in most localities were satisfactory. Season operations began in many farming districts.

He came away from the conference, however, with the conviction that Mr. Coolidge, in addition to favoring a plan for supplying rural credit, was also sympathetic with co-operative farming methods.

FINAL HALL QUIZ IS ON TODAY

Bonerville, N. J., Aug. 12 (A.P.)—Today's questioning of witnesses in the Hall-Mills murder mystery will complete the testimony on which State Senator Alexander Simpson, special investigator, will decide tomorrow whether to go on with the case or drop it.

For three days state police and Inspector Underwood of the Jersey City force have been taking statements from all those who had any connection with the investigation four years ago in the manner in which the Rev. Edward Whelan Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, his choir singer, met death. Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall was arrested yesterday (Monday) weeks ago tonight, charged with the both murders and, two days later, was released in $10,000 bail by order of Chief Justice Gurnea.

BUILD TOMORROW

After a period of preliminary investigation the detectives this work set out to build anew the story of the crime. To do this day summoned more than fifty witnesses. The final questioning is to take place today and after a scrutiny of all this testimony Senator Simpson has promised to announce some time tomorrow whether he will "fight the case to a finish" or abandon it.

Important persons who have not yet been questioned include Willis Stevens, brother of Mrs. Hall; Henry De St. Carpender, a cousin, and the "mystery woman in Orange."

MYSTERY WOMAN

A week ago Senator Simpson announced that this woman had come to his office voluntarily and offered important evidence. She was to be called before Inspector Underwood yesterday for formal questioning. When she failed to appear, it was reported that she and four other women had disappeared.

THE UNITED STATES government now runs on a budget system, or tried to, and yesterday President Coolidge cut ninety-nine million dollars from the preliminary estimate.

According to the present plan, the government this year will spend three billion two hundred and seventy million dollars. That is much less than we were spending a while ago, but it is six times the annual expenditure that filled the country with horror in the days of Tom Reed.

War is expensive, especially when you pay the bills for other countries.

EARLY TOMORROW, in all probability, young Whittemore, the Baltimore bandit, will be hanged for murder. The Baltimore American says, "What does a man think of in his last day?"

When he sits in a condemned murderer's cell a man doesn't think much, if at all. He is usually out of the thinking kind, for thinking would have kept him from that cell.

BUT NATURE is kind to wild animals, and even to murderers. Darwin says nearly all animals die without great suffering, because killed by some other animal. In the excitement of flight they feel little pain.

The murderer manages to excuse himself in his own mind, and usually feels for himself the sympathy that he ought to have for the man that he killed; that helps his last day. Or he intensely hates those that convicted and sentenced him—futile, but consoling.

ROME ASSURES the United States that Italy's treaty with Spain is not a blow at North America, but intended to take South American markets away from the United States, and not intended to bore into South America.

No explanation or apology is needed. If we are foolish enough to keep out of the country immigrants like the Italians, who helped to build it up, we certainly ought not to play a dog-in-the-manger part and try to keep Italians, Spaniards, Frenchmen and other desirable immigrants out of South America.

Our foolish loss will be South America's gain.

ST. DANIEL HALL'S warning that the human race will soon lack food is discussed by many scientists everywhere, needlessly. The amount of fruit and vegetables wasted in the United States is equal to the amount eaten.

Oceans, lakes and rivers could provide fish and meat, whales, sea-cows, porpoises, etc., enough to support five times the present population of the globe and fifty times that population if fishing were done scientifically with power boats, good fish protected, and destructive fish, the sharks, scientifically eliminated.

EARTH'S sixteen hundred million human beings weigh about 1,300,000 tons, allowing 160 pounds average, which is too much. The endless billions of tons of fertile soil on this earth, properly cultivated, to say nothing of the vast oceans, would feed a thousand times that population.

Charles Walker, forty, of No. 273 Stevins Hill avenue, Dorchester, a stationary engineer, was struck by an automobile while crossing Memorial Drive to the Flies Building in Cambridge.

His condition is regarded at Macachusetts General Hospital as serious. A lung was punctured, four ribs were broken, and his legs were badly wrenched.

An attempt is being made to locate the driver of the automobile that struck Walker. The driver left, leaving his victim dying in the street.

Pollacks Play "Tag 'I'm It" Off Coast

Washington, Aug. 12 (A.P.)— Pollacks off the New England coast is leading all other fish on the Atlantic in the game of tag with the Bureau of Fisheries.

The pollack has been "it"
three times while 48 others have been captured twice and 1,672 have been taken only once since the bureau started making tag to 86,782 pollacks, cod and haddock in a study of their habits.

$25,000 for Church

turer.

ALBANS HAVE ONE CHURCH IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Aug. 12. (Universal) —Religious worship by Americans became directly related to the Mexican church controversy with the advancement of a project by which each principal foreign colony would be allowed one church with its own clergyman.

The suggestion was advanced unofficially by foreign diplomats in Mexico City as a solution of the difficulty confronting those who are not natives but who desire to worship God as at home.

One proposal contemplates seven special foreign congregations operating under government authority.
Under this plan only one church would be allowed the large American colony now having five congregations. The American embassy is not opposing the project.

The prevailing view in the American colony is that the proposal is not sound on account of the impossibility of satisfying the religious aspirations on a purely city basis without reference to convictions.

The Mexicans' aspects of the religious controversy continue practically unchanged. While Mexico City is quiet further reports of strife elsewhere continue.

New phases of the economic boycott outside of Mexico City involved the reorganization of telephone service as another evidence of the Catholic determination to carry the fight.
There are rumors of disturbances near the border.

Father Burke Assails

Taylor Report on Mexico

Washington, Aug. 12. (Universal)
—The report of Dr. Alva W. Taylor on the Mexican religious crisis was assailed by Father John J.
Burke, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, for failing to give any reliable or informative survey of the true conditions in Mexico or the laws of the statute books.

"It is, for the most part, occupied with repeating the anti-Catholic trade of Calles without the aid of priests and of the Catholic Church," declared Father Burke, adding:

"Any committee that lends itself so freely to be the mouthpiece of one party to this controversy may name no one if its motives are questioned and its impartiality doubted."

"Never once does the report explain how it is possible for the Catholic Church or for any other church to live and flourish under the provisions of the present Mexican constitution and the present regulatory decrees issued by Calles."

The report is anachronism in the most sense of that word."

Mexican Archbishop May

Face Trial for Interview

Mexico City, Aug. 12 (A.P.)—Minister of the Interior Tejeda has issued a statement declaring that an interview alleged to have been given to an American newspaper by the Most Rev. Mons. Dol Rio, Archbishop of Mexico, violates the clause in the Mexican Constitution prohibiting clergy from criticizing the executive head of Mexico or the Mexican government.

Therefore, says the statement, the interview "has been cited to the Attorney-General for review of the United States Department of Justice."
This is said to mean that if the Attorney-General finds the charges of Senator Tejeda justified the government may order the arrest and trial of the Archbishop.

Rules Catholics Can Serve

on Church Committees

Mexico City, Aug. 12 (A.P.)—
Mayor Arturo Baracho of Mexico
City has decreed that the committees placed in charge of Catholic charities in the capital may be composed of five Catholics and five non-Catholics appointed citizens for each church. However, the committees have been municipal appointees.

Under the new plan Catholic committees are to have charge of the management of each church, but the municipal committees will assume responsibility for the property.

WORKS FOR U. S. LEAD IN AIR

Washington, Aug. 12. (Universal)—
The Commerce Department "hopped off" on the first day of an aviation program, designed to give the United States leadership in commercial flying. It plans to establish emergency landing fields every 30 miles along coast airways, which will be marked out all over the country.

The three-fold function which the department will attempt to carry out was outlined by William P. Mc-Cracken, new aviation secretary, as follows:

1.—Aid navigation by the establishment of airways, airports and other facilities.

2.—Foster the development of new types of planes and new air services by private companies.

3.—Establish regulations for air flying, including the licensing of pilot.

Despite the program made by European countries for the development of passenger air lines, the Secretary asserted that the United States is actually far ahead in commercial aviation at the present time. All European lines are subsidized by the governments, he pointed out.

FALLS 75 FEET, BODY OF BOXER TAKEN TO N. Y.

New Bedford, Aug. 12 (A.P.)—After being his way while pursuing the west end of Cuttyhunk Island about midnight, Surferman William Jenner, 21, of Taunton, stumbled down a 75-foot embankment, and tumbled hip and ankle to the bottom of a 75-foot embankment, more than a mile and a half to the coastguard station.

He was given first aid treatment by Dr. Charles C. Sanford, Boston Summer Resident. The physician ordered his removal to the hospital in this city.

Abe Friedman, former boxing star, who died after he stepped into the path of a truck in South Boston, will be buried from the home of his parents in New York City.

The boxer's body is to be placed on the New York train at noon today, and the burial exercises will be held in that city.

Friedman's left leg was all but severed, and physicians at the City Hospital held out little hope for his life after he was brought to the institution.

The former New England bantam-weight champion had apparently not seen the heavy truck of all, as it was hidden behind another car at the time Friedman stepped out to cross Dorchester avenue at Taft street.

The truck is owned by the Prior Haulage Company of No. 208 Main street, Charlestown.

Blanket Kills Babe in Crib

John Moore, seventeen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Moore of Beacon street, Watertown, was found dead in his crib today. Accidental suffocation caused by a blanket resulted in his death.

Members of the fire department and physicians rapidly applied palliatives. Medical Examiner West was notified.

JURY PLANS TO REOPEN AIMEE McPHERSON CASE

Lawrence, Aug. 12 (A.P.)—Witnesses from Cambridge-the-die, previously subpoenaed in the Aimee McPheron kidnapping investigation, may be again summoned before the county grand jury, it was reported today.

Photostatic copies of the original grocery slips written by "Miss X" at the Cornell "love cottage," rented by Kenneth G. Orlinson, former Angeline Temple rival, and samples of Mrs. McPheron's handwriting are reported to have been submitted in a handwriting expert by the grand jury.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY
Richard Crane Yacht, Megildis, Being Fixed Up for Racing Season

THERE'S A BIG BLACK schooner down in Gloucester that's a handsome and sturdy addition to local racing craft. She is the yacht Megildis, flying the family flag of the Richard Cranes of Chicago and enrolled in the New York Yacht Club.

HER NAME, "MEGILDIS," is in honor of young Mrs. Russell Crane (Mrs. J. W. Crane), daughter of the late Mr. J. W. Crane, a well-known Bostonian. The yacht was built by the Richard Cranes of Chicago and is the first of a series of "Megildis" yachts which she rose to fame as a racing vessel.

NOW THE "MEGILDIS" is getting a gleaming new coat of paint and otherwise being polished up at Gloucester shipyard in anticipation of the New York Yacht Club races and regatta. With her tried and true fisherman lines her owner hopes much in the way of maritime victories.

THE CRANES AND THE PATTENSONS are two foremost families closely akin through the distaff line, both Mrs. Crane and Mrs. Patterson having been Hinghamites.

SPEAKING OF YACHTS, Commodore Nathaniel Ayer of the Eastern promises to show all competitors a clean pair of heels when his new foreign-built boat meets Eastern and New York craft for the first time, probably in the New York racing runs on the annual cruise.

THE AYER SCHOONER, eagerly awaited by her owners, has just arrived in Gloucester and is being put into condition and fitted with racing rig for the season's most important meetings. That she'll prove a doughty and cup winning successor to the Queen Mary is a foregone conclusion.

WITH UNFLINCHING interest for the children's, John Patterson, Mrs. Francis B. Crown.

Syd Chaplin to Star in "The Missing Link"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service. LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Somebody really should page Louis Wolheim and Bull Montana, Syd Chaplin is stealing their stuff. At least the title of "The Missing Link" sounds suspiciously like one of Bull's playful characterizations of the Simon relatives and at the same time as if it might be a kin to "The Hairy Ape," which Wolheim made famous on the stage.

Whether "The Missing Link," the title of Chaplin's next is an explanation of the Darwinian theory or only a burlesque, I do not know. All I know is that Syd Chaplin, Charles (Chuck) Reisner, director of the Chaplin comedies, and Darryl Francis Zanuck, scenario writer, have just returned from the Santa Cruz Islands where "The Missing Link" was born.

Not one at Warners' studio will say a word beyond boasting that it is to be a big special, fit to accompany the vitaphone which is creating so much discussion.

Time was when the music was secondary to the films, today Warners are trying to make their films fit this new musical synchronization device.

"The Better 'Ole," Syd Chaplin's previous comedy made the grade and will have a showing here in Los Angeles with all these new musical trimmings.

FRANCES MARION, who is well known from coast to coast, as any of the movie stars, is about to sign a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

France, for the last few years has devoted her scenario talents to the Sam Goldwyn Company, having been responsible for many of Goldwyn's most successful scenarios.

I have not been told just what the amount of Frances' salary is. But I am sure it is plenty, because her services are always in demand and that being the case the companies are willing to pay for her brand of work, and they should.

THE FOX STUDIO ON SUNDAY will be run by strangers. There won't be a cutter, a gateman, a property boy, an electrician or even a star or director, that belongs to the Fox Company on the lot. The reason is a picnic.

Since Winfield Sheehan, general manager has let it be known that he expects every mother's son and daughter, too, to take part in the festivities, they will hardly refuse.

I WAS AMUSED TO SEE COLLEEN MOORE arrive on the set of "Twinkle-Toes" on a bicycle. Distance between the Limehouse street and her dressing room is so great that she grew weary of "hoofing it."

Another observation I made while visiting the River National lot, was the erection of a church on the Limehouse street. Colleen told me it was being built in this substantial fashion because they expect to use it in other pictures.

FIGHT FANS LABORED under a mistaken idea that the Midway fight was being conducted at the Hollywood stadium. A Midway fight really was being conducted, but it was only in the movies.

N. C. Z. BOSTON.—Regarding the age of Tom Mix's horse, Tony, I sent him a telegram and here is his answer: Barbara Benton, Boston Evening American, Boston, Mass.: Tony fifteen years old.

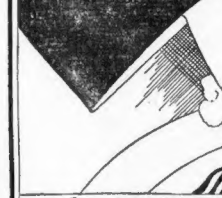

TONY MIX. E. L. W. MEDFORD.—Thank you kindly for your friendly letter. It will always be a pleasure to hear from you. Address your three favorite cars of the Famous Players-Lasky Studio, 1520 Vine street, Hollywood, Calif.

DEVOTED FAN, SOMERVILLE.—A "large order" indeed! But here you are: Regarding Mary Brian and William Haines and the publication giving complete information on other stars and methods in the movies, there is a book now being published by the Haskins Newspaper Service, Washington, D. C., titled "Who's Who and What's What in the Movies." You might write them for it. Another work on the same subject.

and I think you will find it at local bookstores, is "Famous Film Folks," by Donald Fox, published by the Doran Company, New York. Some of the major studios are located east of New York. Though some sea scenes have been taken around Boston Harbor.

E. L. MCK. WOODLAND, MAINE.—Address Kenneth Harlan, care of the Warner Brothers Studio, 1847 Sunset boulevard, Hollywood, Calif. Tom Mix, care of Fox Studio, 1401 North Western avenue, Hollywood, Calif.

"HARRY IT." NEWPORT, R. I.—Many thanks. Lillian Gish has just completed a pictureization of Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter." Dorothy Gish is now in England hard at work on some Irish movie films. New titles of others have not been announced as yet.

WORLD COURT MITCHELL GETS LEAGUE 'TRAP', 700 LB. TUNA SAYS BORAH OFF MAINE

Nampa, Ida., Aug. 12 (A.P.)—In spite of the generosity of the United States toward foreign governments during the World War as having "drawn into league" Senator William F. Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, in an address here declared the attitude of those nations would cause the Senate to reverse its decision and reject the World Court if it were voted on today.

Senator Borah, referring to the treaty on the League of Nations, said that as soon as the League fight was over, the League forces threw their strength behind the World Court.

"DRAWN INTO LEAGUE."

He said that "we have been drawn into the League of Nations in an indirect way, through entrance into the World Court," which he described as the agent, counsel and attorney of the League of Nations, "which is controlled by the great powers now writing us down as shysters and traitors."

"It is my judgment, and I venture it is a prophecy, that if we become a member of the World Court and by advice and counsel come into participation in the political controversies of Europe, we shall come face to face with the same old problem of the League of Nations."

In reviewing the history of foreign debt settlements, Senator Borah after showing that settlement of the French debt upon the present proposed basis will cancel seven billions of the eleven billion European debt, said, "single declares that the desire of the French amounts to cancellation in full."

CLEMENCEAU LETTER.

Discussing the attitude of England and France toward the United States, the discourteous reception of American tourists during the last few months and the adverse editorial and news comments of European newspapers, the Senator declared that the open letter of Georges Clemenceau to President Coolidge "must have struck harshly on all American ears."

Clemenceau's letter asked that the element of the French debt should not be treated as a commercial matter.

The Senator predicted the next fifty years will mark the most severe economic war history has ever recorded and declared that in view of this impending struggle there is no just reason for the United States to give up war debt collection.

FRIGHTENED BY SNAKE MUTE SPEAKS AGAIN

Beltsheim, Pa., Aug. 12 (N.Y.S.)—Miss Maudie Weisner, twenty-four, of Center Valley, today can speak after being mute for more than ten years. It was all due to a snake. Ten years ago Miss Weisner lost her speech from fright.

When she was walking home she saw a snake. The sight of the reptile gave her such a shock, she told her father, that she yelled out "a snake," and from that time has been unable to utter words almost as distinctly as though her vocal chords had never been affected.

DEMPSY PREDICTS QUICK KAYO OVER GENE TUNNEY

KAYO SURE SAYS KING OF BOXERS

Dempsey Pays Tribute to Tunney but Expects to Stop Challenger

By JACK DEMPSY

World's Heavyweight Champion

I WANTED a match with either Harry Wills or Gene Tunney. They are the only contenders for my title who are apt to draw any considerable amount of money with me. Oh yes, I admit I have an eye to the commercial phase of the thing—a couple of eyes.

In fact, now that I am at last matched with Tunney, let me tell you something in my opinion.

Tunney is the tougher opponent of the two for me.

Because in the first place, Tunney is YOUNGER than Wills, and being younger, he has more ambition.

Tunney's future is before him. Wills' behind him. He is a trackside old man, this Brown Panther of New Orleans, as they call him, tired from years of pugilistic service.

Tunney sees ahead of him, while Wills, who has the only two sport writers of the WILL TO WIN, and while I think I will another time in a short time I see him a very different man.

Tunney's style will make me more difficult for me than Wills. I know that because I've seen both Tunney and Wills in action a number of times.

I FT HOOR BEST BLOW

Wills likes to grab an opponent's arm and throw him down. He is a real fighter, but he is not a real boxer. He is a real fighter, but he is not a real boxer.

CHASING the CHAMPION
Written by HARRY WILLS
for the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

By HARRY WILLS—CHAPTER X.

JIM JOHNSON held on so much in our New Orleans bout that pried Jim away from me he would say.

"So you're the fellow that licked Jack Johnson! If you're so good why don't you break away and do some fighting!"

This got on Jim's nerves after a while so the next time Burns asked him to open up and fight he stopped and bawling out his extended arms he said:

"We fight if you 33 like. I am feeling your time here gloves and fight this boy!"

After beating Battling Jim I made my first ring appearance in New York, meeting Sam McVey in a ten-round bout. The papers gave me the popular decision.

Harry Boxes McVey in Boston

I boxed Jim Johnson in New York and won over him and then went to Boston for a twelve-round bout with McVey.

The referee's decision was in my favor. The papers said that I was another man that Champion Jack would have to pay to get a black list. I went to New York and outpointed Langford in a ten-rounder.

Early in 1914 I took on Langford at New Orleans for twenty rounds and beat him all the way.

One month after beating Langford I met him again in another scheduled twenty-round bout at New Orleans. I beat him in every round up to the ninetieth and was well ahead of him in that round too, when I became careless and Sam put over a wallop that sent me to sleep.

In 1915, 1916 and 1917 I took part in 25 bouts. I fought Langford eight times during those three years. McVey I boxed twice, Jim Johnson four times and Jack Thompson three times.

Referee Makes Wills Look Bad

I fought Langford about fourteen times. The record books do not contain them all—and I beat him every time except twice, when he knocked me out.

Jack Spills Boxing Partner's Teeth

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.)—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, has something to learn about the fighting game.

One subject that he has failed to study properly in the matter of sparring partner's teeth. It appears that Jack, during a friendly exchange of necks in training yesterday, costed several teeth from an opponent's mouth, thereby causing the opponent to sink in the floor.

At night the champion was called to the phone.

"In you intend to pay for those teeth you scattered about the ring?" he was asked.

"Well, I suppose so," he answered, "but don't get them in my way again."

Tagging All Bases

The hot-headed Tashers tossed off two games in 10 days, took a 3-0 lead in the first game, and a 2-0 lead in the second.

The Reds were very from the heat and murdered the Phillies 21 to 0 in the eighth inning. Larry Vance pitched for Brooklyn and showed his old-time form in the pitcher's box.

Cancellation Is Wrong Way to World's Respect

Concede that Clemenceau in a clumsy way spoke the feeling of France, and in varying degree the feeling of the remainder of Europe.

Admit that it is not pleasant, after the extravagant praises of war time, to be turned upon and denounced from one end of the Old World to the other as Shylocks.

Confess that purely from a business standpoint, if no other, it would be worth a great sum could we undo this misjudgment and once more enjoy the world's good will.

There is nobody of sense in this country who does not wish for the esteem of mankind; nobody who would begrudge the cost of getting and keeping it. That goes without saying.

But after all these truths are admitted, what then? Have we any conceivable reason for supposing that the route to the redemption of Europe's good will lies through the cancellation of the war debts?

In the case of France, which has paid neither the interest nor any part of the principal of her debt, cancellation would put not a single new sou in the treasury that Clemenceau complains is empty.

In chief immediate effect would be to free the officials of France to make new borrowings at high interest from the international bankers. They would do that, because they find it easier to get money by borrowing than to collect it by taxing the thrift of France.

As to the effect a generation hence, why give concern to that? If France of today cannot understand America; if the Gallic mind is now hopelessly enwrapped with old hates, old traditions, old delusions, inherited from centuries, what likelihood is there that it will be greatly changed in the next decade or two? Certainly no self-respecting Frenchman should want it to be changed by American subsidies.

In the case of British cancellation would, it is true, turn a considerable stream of money back into John Bull's strong box, for Britain alone among our major debtors has really been paying substantially on account.

But it is difficult to believe that the proud English nation, with its fine traditions of meeting its obligations promptly and frankly, is either serious in wanting to be released from a settlement volunteered by itself or is in any sense making such a release the price of its good will.

Such a theory strikes too staggering a blow at both Britain's commercial integrity and the honesty of her public protestations of friendship.

The American champions of cancellation, now so vociferous with their applause of Clemenceau, have yet to establish a single valid reason why their proposed treatment of the debts would promote good will.

Assuming the cancellation were made, there would come at first a few feeble "hurrahs," then a renewed deluge of abuse, because Europe would accept and interpret it as a confession of shame, belatedly made after eight years of goading. The appetite it would feed would only cry for more, while behind the posture of appeal would be contempt for the easy mark.

No, no, that is not the way to the world's respect. The way to the world's respect is for America hereafter, as in the days of its founders, to keep out of other people's quarrels, have no political connection whatsoever with Europe, be ever ready to meet good will with good will, and aggression with adequate defense; and, so on guard, mind its own business.

"Kitchen Husbands"

The kitchen as a fifty-fifty workshop for husband and wife shocks foreign ideas.

Abroad the man is privileged. That is, he earns the income, holds the purse, bosses the family and the wife does the housework.

Usage breeds sanction. So it isn't surprising that European women cling to that arrangement. Even the Spanish Princess who recently eulogized our American young men so highly as desirable husbands, thought our young women so sorry lot because they object to drudgery.

But here the good husband deems it a privilege to go into the kitchen and give the wife a helping hand.

Each to his own fashion. There is no need to have human customs made uniform.

Common Sense Triumphs

The other day Mr. Justice Lawrence, of England, surrendered to the temperature, which was well above the eighties, by removing his wig and inviting the barristers to do the same. He had only recently rebuked a barrister for so far yielding to the heat as to appear in court with his vest unbuttoned.

Other judges in the English court showed themselves similarly lenient.

Just why officials should be required to wear uncomfortable clothing in hot weather it is hard to say. It is well known that a soldier's coat must be buttoned up to the neck, no matter what the weather.

It is a pleasure to see common sense triumph in this instance at least.

A Tip for Suzanne

France's tennis star, tired of seeing other people make money out of her skill, is going to do a little harvesting for herself. She will turn professional.

There is one condition of success in the new role that Suzanne would like to remember. The cardinal rule of the stage, that "the curtain must not be held," applies here. The professional needs to keep temperance in rein.

Money?

France is rich, industrious, intelligent.

The wealth of the City of Paris alone probably exceeds that of the Swiss cantons. Yet French money has fallen to one-tenth of its value as compared with dollars, while the money of the Swiss nations stands above the dollar. Men use money and call themselves financiers, but they know as little about money or finance as the tumble bug in the field knows about the treasures collected for his winter supplies.

The Rain Maker Makes Good

By O. P. Williams

A NUMBER of Americans, apparently fonder of Europe than of their own country, are organizing to promote cancellation of war debts. Part of their propaganda is to belittle Secretary Mellon.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HERE an old man, but he loves life yet. He doesn't want to die.

All his life he has met trouble bravely and intelligently. But now, looking into that veiled immortality which awaits him, his fleshed logic and imagination fail him.

What possible consolation have in the hereafter? What possible reason is there for a perpetuation of my existence?

Yes, that is a REASON, my friend. You think there must be a REASON for future existence. You dread death and feel that your right will go out forever.

But you see this present life without any qualms. You're quite happy, and you will awake tomorrow and continue to live as long as your good health permits.

But what REASON for your living now, there'll always be a reason. 'Tis part of the human race. 'Tis part of biology, you say. "That's why I'm here now. That's the reason for my existence."

No, my friend. That isn't the reason for your existence. That's merely the present condition of your existence. Your present environment.

You were born into the human race, the human race has given action to your WILL. Couldn't biology have outlined the tremendous work with out YOUR creation? It certainly has.

Yes, feel that your life is infinitesimal in comparison with the immensity of infinity. But your life is just as infinitesimal and seemingly unimportant in comparison with the billions and billions of crawling, swimming, flying, making creatures which have lived and will live upon the earth.

So if your existence is to be based on reasonableness and importance, then you're no more right to exist now than you will have to exist hereafter.

YET HERE YOU ARE! Here you are a feeble, quivering mass of flesh and bone and yet endowed with the majesty of thought, the fire of love, and the end of course—all noble attributes. Here you are part of a tremendous drama. You're paid to act. You don't know the plot. The show went on after you came. It will go on after you leave. Yet YOU ALONE can play the little part you have to play and out of all infinity you were called to play it.

Why be so doubtful of what may come after death when such a miracle has come in life?

No greater wonder can possibly await you after you, last breath than confronted you after your first, than you are now unobscured a

Yet Lord Rothemann, eminent Britisher, viewing with a perspective, pronounces him "unquestionably the greatest finance minister in the history of his country."

That will also be the verdict of his fellow-citizens who appraise fairly the striking accomplishments of his credit.

OPIUM, LIKE FIRE, MUST BE RULED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

SARA GRAHAM-MULHALL, formerly director of New York's State narcotic drug control, calls the opium poppy the "demon flower." She is engaged in the movement to educate the country respecting drug addiction.

This plant may well be called by this name. It is one of the most deadly menaces to humanity in existence, and like all deadly menaces it may be of use.

Opium is like fire. When it is properly controlled it is a valuable servant for the people. Fire in stores and in furnaces supplies the motive power and comfort of the people. Fire uncontrolled devastates woodlands and cities.

So it is with opium. When it was discovered it was thought to be one of the greatest boons to humanity. It could render a person insensible to pain in certain crises.

It was found, however, that its real value was offset by its danger. Opium strikes at the thing most necessary in the human being. It saps the will and blunts the moral sense.

A person who has come under the influence of this drug is no longer responsible. Often you cannot restrain him, for the law will not permit it. He really is a dangerous man and needs looking after.

A recent writer in public service says that he remembers "a boyhood principal who was an addict, a physician addict, two reporter addicts, a mother addict, and a pastor addict whose tragic descent was the kind of thing it is easy to prove impossible."

The approaches to this subservency are very subtle and a man's power over himself is gone before he knows it. His downfall is very difficult to stop.

brother. Accept it as you accept the earth beneath your feet. It is there. It will always remain there. And when your spirit steps naked from the soil it has outgrown, you may be sure that reason will still sustain you. It will never cease.

If it needed you enough to carry you safely from the beginning, through this little coil, why should it drop you into nothingness when the play has equally begun?

There is, of course, a reason for this. It will always remain there. And when your spirit steps naked from the soil it has outgrown, you may be sure that reason will still sustain you. It will never cease.

Wants to Fight Mussolini

He Looks as Though He Might Fight WELL

THIS IS KEMAL PASHA, DICTATOR OF TURKEY, WHO THREW OUT THE SULTAN AND OVERRULED THE LAWS OF MOHAMMED HIMSELF. HE LOOKS LIKE A "GO GETTER."

This gigantic statue of Kemal Pasha, ruler of Turkey—for this Turk is the gentleman who wrote the "sassy" letter to Mussolini, telling him to come on and fight—and adding, "If you ever attack Turkey, when the war ends your one trouble will be to find a place in Asia to bury the bones of dead Italians."

Later other statues of the Turkish dictator will be put up at Eszembou and Angora. Kemal Pasha evidently believes that his figure is one to command respect—and he is right.

This statue will interest Americans of Italian ancestry, for this Turk is the gentleman who wrote the "sassy" letter to Mussolini, telling him to come on and fight—and adding, "If you ever attack Turkey, when the war ends your one trouble will be to find a place in Asia to bury the bones of dead Italians."

Mussolini hasn't published his answer yet, but when he sends it it will be a REAL answer, and very possibly, as Roosevelt would put it, "Deeds, not words."

The interest in Kemal Pasha lies in this fact: He has done what no successful ruler had ever done in modern times and "got away with it." He has offended the religious sentiment of the entire Turkish nation. He has taken the veils from the faces of Mohammedan women. The prophet says they must be veiled. Kemal Pasha told the Turks to stop wearing the foolish little red fez with a tassel on the top, and wear the hats that Europeans wear. Now, with his own statue to be put up in three places, he defies Mohammed's law that no image, picture or other representation of a human being must ever be made or displayed anywhere in Turkey.

You will notice that in the architecture of Mohammedan mosques you see scrolls and all sorts of ornamentation, but NEVER A PICTURE OR A STATUE.

The statues and pictures, stained glass, paintings, etc., so common in Christian churches, are never seen in Mohammedan mosques.

Kemal Pasha says: "That's all nonsense. It will do the people GOOD to see what I look like."

And his statue, gigantic in size, with the terrible power that you see here, will be displayed in three places, and later perhaps—if he holds his power—in thousands of places, Mohammed or no Mohammed.

The old prophet said that the only important thing was Allah; next to Allah came Mohammed himself. Next to him came his wife, Katija, rich widow, that hired him as a camel driver, then as general agent, then married him and made him rich. She is the only woman that he allowed to go to Mohammedan heaven—she probably had something to say about that.

Mohammed made a patched up religion, gathered ideas here and there from other religions. He probably read in the Bible about "Thou shalt make no graven image," didn't read enough to know that that referred to idols, like the calf of gold, and took the thing complete and undigested into his religion.

Perhaps he said to himself, "It's a good thing not to let them have pictures or statues; that will make them think more about ME and my associate, Allah."

Before you leave Mohammed and his strange ideas, learn one thing from him. Men succeed WHEN THEY REFUSE TO BE DISCOURAGED.

Mohammed used to go off in a cave to meditate and think; possibly also to get a rest from Katija. He preached with a violence and enthusiasm that you can imagine. Multiply the energy in Kemal Pasha by about one thousand and you get Mohammed. Y. took him three years to collect thirteen followers.

DON'T BE DISCOURAGED IF YOUR NEW IDEA IS ACCEPTED IMMEDIATELY.

MEN DO NOT EXPECT MEN TO BE NEARLY PERFECT

Women often cannot understand why men like a certain masculine friend who women generally do not like.

Perhaps he may be a bit uncouth, abrupt or too outspoken for the women.

Possibly not gallant enough or not an adept at small talk.

But such a man, with good standing among the men is usually a safe one in whom to place confidence.

It is admitted that men stand together for one another better than women stand by one another.

Seldom do you hear a party of men criticizing a man who is absent. Not unless he is more than ordinarily deserving of censure.

Often groups of women will say, "That fellow is a scoundrel."

Men do not expect men in general to be perfect, or near it. If they strike a fair average, it is about all their men friends can
